

DIATRIBES

free jazz&improvisation open trio (or more)

Laurent Peter/d'incise: laptop, objects, treatments Cyril Bondi: drums, percussions
and guest(s):

Diatribes, a strongly libertarian ensemble, began its existence in a Geneva basement in Winter 2004. Their idea was to mix three distinct types of sound (electronic, wind and percussion), in order to develop a malleable musical mass. The saxophone and drums merge into each other in a primary dance, where construction and deconstruction coexist, and envy and disgust unite. There are no limits to their sound, where rhythms, melodies and noise meet sporadically, merging into each other until they are almost forgotten. Free jazz in its approach, acoustic and electronic in its execution, the trio is capable of exploring the minute like the intense.

Initially a trio with Gaël Riondel on saxophone, diatribes became a polymorphous formation, extending its spectrum to other musicians such as the guitarist Christian Graf, the electroacoustician Nicolas Sordet, the pianists Jacques Demierre and Johann Bourquenez, the bassist Dragos Tara or the saxophonist Immanuel de Souza..

Laurent Peter (1983): Works under d'incise moniker since 2002, member of the Audioactivity collective since 2000, he divide his work between electronica, electroacoustic music and free improvisation, has played with Christian Graf, Nicolas Sordet, Johanne Bourquenez, Dragos Tara, Guillaume Lantonnet, Christophe Berthet, Rafa Mazur, Michal Dimny, Sylvain Darifourc, Eric Pailhe, Benoit Moreau, Immanuel de Souza, Laurent Brutin, Abstral Compost, Aymeric de Tapol, Fabien Duscomb, Gavin Prior, Krzysztof Gavlas, Crashbonsai, Marc Perenoud, Laurent Berger, Larkian, Tzii, Delpine Horst. He is the head of Insubordinations netlabel since 2006.
